Associate Justice Hughes said of the appointment of Justice White as Chief Justice:
"An admirable appointment, I hold Mr. Justice White in the highest esteem, and his appointment is in every way fitting."

Perplexing Situation.

Washington, D. C., December 12.—A perplexing, if not serious, situation is regarded as having arisen out of the change in the personnel of the Intersitate Commerce Commission made by President Taft's appointments to-day. The two new commissioners proposed—C. C. McChord, of Kentucky, and B. H. Meyer, of Wisconsin, named in succession to Commissioner Cockrell and Chairman Knapp, respectively, have heard none of the testimony in the important rate cases recently heard by the commission.

The cases have been set down for argument on January 12, 1211. By that time the Court of Commerce will be in process of organization, and Chairman Knapp, if confirmed by the Senate, will have retired from the commission. Commissioner Cockrell's term presumably will expire on the 31st instant, although his commission appears to extend the term until January 12.

In any event, two of the commissioners who have studied the rate cases, and have heard the testimeny at the nearings will have retired from the commission before the arguments are completed. It is the opinion among officers of the commission that it probably will be necessary further to postpone the effective date of the commission's order in the rate cases, so as to afford the incoming commissioners epportunity to examine the testimony
and, perhaps, thereafter hear the oral arguments in the light of the evidence.
The proposed advances in rates were suspended until February I. 1911.

The proposed advances in rates were suspended until February I. 1911. For several weeks it has been regarded as likely that it would be necessary to make a further suspension, as it appeared improbable that the commission would be able to reach a decision of the cases in time for announcement by February I. The changes in the personnel of the commission make it almost certain that no determination of the important proceedings can be had by that time.

The probability is that, in the event of the confirmation of Chairmon Knapp as presiding judge of the Court of Commerce, Commissioner Judson C. Clements, Democrat, of Georgia, will be chosen as chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Commissioner Clements is the senior member
